Our trademark

[Why it's a smile]

Well, you know, most big companies these days have trademarks. A nice design that tells you something about the company. So we looked at a lot of ideas. Hundreds of them. All very nice. But when we got down to it, nothing really said "Glendale Federal" like a smile.

After all, that's what people say we've been doing since 1934. Smiling. In those days we had one office, $6,000, and a Federal Charter. Oh, yes...and a smile. A confident one. And people smiled right back. Confident that their savings were safe, secure and growing. Today...thirty-two years, fifteen offices and $750 million later... everyone's still smiling. So why not a smile for a trademark? Maybe it won't walk off with any design awards...but it'll never go out of style.
